abstract: 'User-Generated Content (UGC) is a fast expanding market that is posing major challenges for search engines. In this paper, we present a novel user-centric approach to automatically learn user models for UGC. We introduce a content-based model and a collaborative filter, both with respect to user behavior, but with complementary strengths. The content-based model is tailored to the task of discovering similarities between users and content, while the collaborative filter can be used to enhance existing content-based models.
We investigate several different versions of the two components, with different assumptions and parameters.
We evaluate the performance on a large set of real-world user models and show that we can automatically learn section Football Ian Harty's injury-time header saw Reading deny victory to promoted Wigan at the Madejski Stadium. The Championship strugglers took the lead through Frank Fielding's 77th-minute header, with Hunt scoring the equaliser from a corner to force the match into extra time. Harty's stunning equaliser saw the hosts lead after 45 minutes, when Jordan Rhodes hooked in against the post. But the Royals recovered superbly to win the game on the away goal rule when John Swift pounced on a loose ball to score. It meant that, despite sitting five points above the
